One tool starting to use is Inclusive Classroom Profile - recommend. The Inclusive Classroom Profile (ICP), by Elena P. Soukakou, Brookes Publishing
Today's Topic	NEEDS ASSESSMENT RESULTS AND NEXT STEPS (slide deck) Thoughts on the 3 TOP-RATED TOPICS 1. Maximizing resources, keeping content current while meeting training/time demands & sustaining staff 2. Evidence-informed/-Based PD 3. Preparing/supporting coaching, mentoring, TA, Reflective supervision ● There seems to be a lot packed into item 1 ● Maybe we could focus each meeting on one of these topics. Have a presenter and also break-out groups with discussion questions?

MEETING AGENDA & NOTES

- We may want to break these down and both discuss in the CoP as well as develop other opportunities for more in-depth content. Three types of PD (PD one offs, Repeated Sessions, Coaching one-on-one) to address being effective PD Providers
- Interested in change initiatives - where we go from not doing to doing
- The idea of de-implementation (of low value/less desirable practices). Sometimes less is more. Talk about how to get people to stop doing low value practices is a part of getting people to do high value practices "Stop doing and start doing"
- Subject matter/teaching practices - what are you or your organization coaching around?

What are the benefits and drawbacks of having the topic time (approximately 20 minutes) be focused on a CoP member(s) sharing information (program, approach, strategies, tools, etc.) and resources related to our established topic followed by group discussion?

- Benefits - real world examples from organizations we can reach out to for questions/ideas
- Benefits - brief enough to still have time to focus more intently on one area as opposed to having too much
- I'm always excited to hear not only WHAT other systems are doing, but also HOW they are doing their work.
- Optimizing resources will increase teaching practices and enable us to assess learning effectively
- When people share/ present, it pulls us into a topic

Ideas for "Topic Time" Facilitation

- I like breaking into smaller group discussions especially if we get to the 3rd topic
- As we consider these topics....and breakout groups...do we need to consider who our target audience is for who we provide PD offerings too (e.g. EI providers and/or teachers in a classroom) or does that not matter as long as we are talking about high quality PD practices and/or resources that apply to any area of the field?
- If we consider breakout rooms, might it be helpful to break out by age group "served"
- I think a lot of topics will work across all areas of the field ...and there may be times when breakout by areas of expertise (0-3, 3-5, K-8) might be helpful
- Maybe you could suggest break-outs groups (name them) and have participants choose their group?
- How can we leverage technology to capture resources, ideas, etc.?

How might we invite members to lead a topic discussion?

DEC PD CoP: Meeting Agenda, Notes, and Updates

MEETING AGENDA & NOTES
	- A call for resources related to the topic might be helpful too - You could also ask for folks to volunteer to be the lead - Survey to members - share the next three topics and ask which ones we might be interested in working on – if there is huge interest - two presentations during that session or a team of presenters

SUBGROUP UPDATES
EI Curriculum Workgroup -Sarah Nichols

- The Mission and Key Principles online module revisions have been added to the Universal Online Part C EI Curriculum Landing Pad. We are still working on the updates to the Facilitator's Guide and a bonus resource related to tele-intervention which should be ready soon. Note the revised modules are now broken up into smaller segments (runtime listed on the landing pad) and there are several new resources available that can be used within the modules or as stand-alone activities. Once all the revisions are complete, we will send an email out to everyone to notify them about what's new and available. Additionally, we hope to spend some time in 2024 bringing more awareness to the Universal Online Part C EI Curriculum, what it includes, who it is for, and how it can be used. For those not yet familiar with these materials, check out this flyer which provides an overview.

EI Video Library - Dana Childress dchildre@odu.edu.
- We'd love to see the addition of videos about service coordination! If anyone is interested in recording one and needs some guidance, feel free to email Dana.
- If you have high quality videos about early intervention to recommend, please send them to Dana for possible inclusion on the site.
